CHOICE AT RISK

Excerpts from PBS special on Abortion Rights

presented by Oscar-nominated, Emmy-winning filmmaker
Dorothy Fadiman, followed by Q & A

The film traces the history of abortion access in the US - from the back alley days through the Supreme Court decision in Roe v. Wade legalizing abortion, then documents the story of an abortion provider whose clinic was firebombed. The final segment underscores the unrelenting challenges faced by those who continue to provide abortion services.

Ms. Fadiman will answer questions from the audience. "The films are not about whether abortion is right or wrong or good or bad," she says. "The films are about the fact that when choice is not available, women die."

"Abortion" is one of the most divisive issues in the U.S. today. We Unitarians are a faith-based organization which remains strongly pro-choice.
